CHI ENDORSES SCRAPPING OF WAR MACHINE IN SHANGHAI

Wu Pei-fu Only Favors Removal Of Arsenal To Hanyang

CHI NOT COMING

May Return To Nanking At Once To Plan March To North

Chengju reports indicate that Marshal Chi Hsieh-yuan has definitely decided to return to Nanking from there and leave the Shanghai situation absolutely to his lieutenant, Bei Pao-shan.

In a telegram to the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce and other local bodies the Kiangsi marshal endorsed the suggestions of the latter to abolish the yamen of the Defence Commissioner of Sungkiang and Shanghai and the removal of the arsenal, located with the Kiangnan Dock.

A translation of his telegram follows:

"In response to your telegram of the 19th, proposing a change in the military system of Shanghai and the removal of the arsenal as two main points of rehabilitation, I wish to say that I am heartily in favor of the suggestions. I am always in sympathy with the general concensus of public opinion. If these suggestions are beneficial to the people of the territory, there is nothing which should prevent them from being carried out. I am just now formulating the necessary plans whereby the proposals may be executed properly and effectively."

On the same subject, a prominent local Chinese merchant yesterday received a telegram from Ex-minister Tung Kan and Mr. Chang Yi-ling, who went to Shanhaikwan to appeal in person to Marshal Wu Pei-fu to consent to the proposals, stated that the Chihli leader, while approving the removal of the arsenal, which he would amalgamate with the Hanyang Arsenal, promised to deal with the question of the abolition of the Lunghua yamen after the conclusion of the Mukden war.

General Bei Pao-shan, now confirmed as the highest military authority in Shanghai, yesterday inspected the 12,000-odd Chekiang troops at Kiangwan in conjunction with Chu Shen-kwan, in command of the tenth division and his chief of staff, Li Yen-ching. The under-officers were gathered together at the headquarters at the Industrial Home in the afternoon and addressed by General Bei. Words of encouragement were given by the Kiangsu general to the returned Chekiang soldiers, whose daily ration for the present will be furnished by the chambers of commerce, the benevolent institutes and the Chapei Philanthropic society.

Investigations show that 2,000 are now stationed at the Industrial Home; 3,000 at the Women and Children's Home; 3,000 at the International Recreation Club's Race Course; 3,000 at the Agricultural Station; and the remainder is distributed in the Jukong School, the Tung Ngo Temple, the Market and other places.

The last batch of irregular Chekiang troops in Chapei were repatriated yesterday afternoon. All soldiers under arms were paid $20 a piece, while those without were given $10.

Marshal Chi Hsieh-yuan, commander of the Kiangsu forces, still dominates the railway situation.

Trains are being operated out of the Shanghai North Station only to Woosung. A regular schedule was started yesterday on this line. The train arriving at the station shortly after 5 o'clock was crowd-

Officials at the station late yesterday afternoon said they had no idea when trains on the other lines would be put in operation. The visit of Mr. M. L. Woo, acting managing director, with Marshal Chi Wednesday has brought no visible results as yet but rail officials believe the situation will

FUND FOR ZANNI QUICKLY PUT UP IN BUENOS AIRES

Argentinians Subscribe Huge Sum To Buy New Plane For Aviator

(Reuter's American Service)

Buenos Aires, Sept. 4.—Patriotic enthusiasm over the around-the-world flight of the Argentine aviator, Major Pedro Zanni, was so great that when it was announced that funds were needed to purchase another seaplane for his trans-atlantic flight, it only took a few days to collect a "barrel" of money.

The barrel was placed at a busy street corner where people could drop in their contributions. When opened at a theatre before a large audience it was found to contain nearly 60,000 pesos, mostly in peso bills. Subscriptions opened by newspapers raised the sum of 100,000 pesos, nearly all of it having been collected after the loss of Zanni's land plane at Hanoi, and when it was not certain whether he would continue his flight after arriving in Japan.

ARMED ROBBERS SHOOT WIFE OF HIGH OFFICIAL

Steal $1,000 In Raid On Home Of Former Governor Of Kwangtung

Two more armed robberies within the Settlement were under investigation by the police yesterday. In one of them, a daring raid on the home of Mr. Yang Shou-doug, formr governor of Kwangtung, at No. 11 Moulmein Road, the robbers wounded Mrs. Yang in the leg, and stole $1,000. In the second robbery, at a general store in the Wayside district, the robbers' loot totalled $234.

The robbery at the home of the former Kwangtung official occurred Wednesday night. Eight men entered by the back door, and, after intimidating the inmates, seized $1,000 in currency. On entering the former Governor's room, the robbers seized him by the neck and fired two shots, one of which wounded Mrs Yang. They said that they were members of the "Big Knife" party.

Four men, two of them armed with pistols, participated in the robbery at an exchange shop at 1235 Singkeipang Road. The men entered the place at about seven o'clock Wednesday night, remained on guard at the door, while the other three entered the shop and began a systematic search of the place. A total of

SOVIET SEES TRIUMPH FOR COMMUNISM IN FAR EAST

China To Be Joined To International, Prediction

PRESS JUBILANT

'India Next, And World Revolution,' Claim

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 22.—"After five years of effort Communism is approaching her hour of triumph in the Far East and shortly China's four hundred millions will be united through the Communist International to the Soviet Government under the Red Flag. After China comes India, and after India a world revolution."

This, according to a message from Riga to the Evening News, is the tenour of the latest articles in the Soviet press. Discussing events in China, the Soviet press asserts that there are in China hundreds of Chinese Communist agitators, educated in the Communist University at Tashkent, where hundreds of Indian agitators have also been trained with a view to overthrowing British rule in India. The Bolshevists declare that amid the present political turmoil in Europe the time is ripe for a Chinese revolution.

Japan Will Send Red Cross Parties To Tientsin, Mukden

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, Oct. 23.—The Japan Red Cross Society has provisionally arranged with the Japanese Foreign Office to send at its own expense a mission to Tientsin and Mukden from motives of humanity in view of the growing war casualties.

Mr. Yoshizawa, the Japanese Minister at Peking, has been instructed to offer a mission for Peking.

General Chamber Seeking Public Support In Drive To Obtain Reforms Here

Abolition Of Defence Commissionership And Dismantling And Removal Of Arsenal Is Program Proposed To Obviate Further Danger

An appeal to public opinion for support of its program of reforms in the Shanghai administrative area is made by the General Chamber of Commerce of Shanghai in a memorandum sent by the chamber yesterday to the various foreign chambers of commerce here, accompanied by a letter in which the co-operation of the foreign chambers is asked.

The memorandum points out that in view of the narrow escape which Shanghai had from being involved in the recent conflict it is obvious that prudence calls for certain vital reforms conducive to the prevention of further prospects of war in the vicinity of the city. The specific proposals made by the chamber are that the post of defence commissioner of Sungkiang and Shanghai be abolished and that the arsenal be dismantled and removed.

The memorandum in full follows:

"The sudden departure of Lu Yung-hsiang and Ho Feng-lin, leaving behind them several tens of thousands of troops in the immediate neighborhood of this city to be fed and cared for has thrown Shanghai into a very precarious situation. Fortunately the people here being alive to the gravity of the situation have exerted themselves with indefatigable zeal and the returned soldiers have proved amenable to reason, thus averting what might have been a catastrophe of unprecedented magnitude. Lest we should forget the principal aspects of the crisis which has practically come to an end, it might not be inadvisable to summarise here several significant episodes of the recent Kiangsu-Chekiang conflict of 40 days' duration before dealing with the problem of vital reforms to check any further menace of warfare in this part of China which controls in some respects the commercial destiny of the nation.

APPEAL FOR PEACE

"When the outbreak of hostilities between the military authorities of Kiangsu and Chekiang was imminent, this chamber pleaded very earnestly with the authorities concerned for an amicable settlement of any differences of opinion existing between them so that the devastations of war might be averted. But unfortunately the appeals made repeatedly fell upon deaf ears.

THE RICE FAMINE CRISIS

"The hold-up of rice supplies for a thickly populated commercial city like Shanghai means starvation to the less unfortunate of its inhabitants, and this leads to possibilities of a breach of peace. Fortunately the authorities lent their support to the applications made for special flags allowing rice boats to come to Shanghai unmolested. In conjunction with the City Chamber of Commerce a fund was raised to ensure reasonable prices being charged with the result that the price for rice of the best quality was restricted to $15 per picul, and the price for rice of the second quality was restricted to $10 per picul. Special cheap-rice sales depots were created to handle the supplies. In this way the rice crisis was tided over.

SHANGHAI PEACE MAINTENANCE ASSOCIATION

"The war having caused an exodus from cities on the railway lines such as Soochow, Hangchow, Kashing, and Sungkiang, the population in Shanghai was suddenly increased to the extent of an additional total of over 50,000. The question of affording food and lodging to these war-stricken refugees claimed immediate attention. This led to the formation of the Shanghai Peace Maintenance Association, representing the collective efforts of this Chamber, the City Chamber of Commerce, and other trade and charitable organisations.

DANGERS AT CHAPEI AND NANTAO

"The sudden flight of Lu Yung-hsiang and Ho Feng-lin left the military situation in Chapei and Nantao in a dangerous condition for the troops that returned from the front were unprovided for. Knowing the peril of facing an army of soldiers with empty stomachs, special funds were immediately raised to procure daily rations for the returned soldiers. This prompt action had the effect of preventing the inhabitants from being molested by the troops for the direct outcome of any mutiny would be a dislocation of trade all round.

PERIL OF PROTRACTED NEGOTIATIONS

SHELLS FALL IN SHANHAIKWAN IN FIERCE ASSAULT

Fires Break Out In Various Parts Of City; Barracks Of Japanese Hit

(Eastern News Agency)

Tientsin, Oct. 23.—Since the 21st instant, Shanhaikwan has constantly been fiercely bombarded by the Fengtien troops from three sides, namely, Chiaoshanssu, Erhlangmiao and the sea-coast. Cannon-shells that have fallen in the station alone total 88.

Fires have broken out in various parts of Shanhaikwan causing great confusion among the citizens there. Yesterday morning at 8, a Fengtien aeroplane threw down two bombs in the Japanese barracks wounding one Chinese and breaking 200 window-panes.

PISTOLS, OPIUM ARE SEIZED BY POLICE IN RAID

Den On Fokien Road Yields Up Quantities Of Varied Contraband

Considerable quantities of arms and opium were obtained in a raid conducted Wednesday night by police of the Sinza station on a house at No. 58A Fokien Road. The raiding party was led by Police Sergeant Hotchkiss and Detective Sergeant Papp.

The police officers found opium smoking in progress in two of the rooms of the house. Fifteen men were taken into custody, two of them charged as keepers of the establishment and the remainder as inmates. Drugs and paraphernalia confiscated included four pipes, five lamps, three pairs of scales, a quantity of raw opium, a brass cocker and tray, and a small amount of prepared opium. The police officers also seized seventy-two silver dollars, fifty 10-cent pieces, $5 notes and some other currency.

Search of a room adjoining the rooms where the opium smoking was in progress revealed a suit-case containing three .32 caliber automatic pistols, six magazines loaded with 41 rounds of ammunition, one .45 calibre. Steyr automatic, two Mauser pistols, and 110 rounds of .38 calibre ammunition.

Police are now searching for a man known as Ts Seu-ding, a native of Tsungming, who is said to have been the occupant of the room where the arms were found.

FENG YU-HSIANG MOVES TROOPS BACK TO PEKING; TELEPHONE SERVICE CUT

Even Foreign Military Communications Between Tientsin And Capital Are Interrupted Following Re-Entry Of Christian General—Chihli Forces Make Gains In Heavy Fighting On Shanhaikuan Front

(Eastern News Agency)

Tientsin, October 23.—General Feng Yu-hsiang's troops, which had been sitting on the fence in the district of Kupeikou, an exit in the Great Wall, to the north of Peking this morning at 6 o'clock began to enter Peking with the 8th Mixed Brigade of the 11th Division under the command of General Feng at the head.

Simultaneously with the arrival of General Feng's troops, telephone communication throughout the capital became interrupted and all foreign military telegraphic and telephone communications between Peking and Tientsin also have been interrupted.

(Eastern News Agency)

Tientsin, October 23.—The stronghold of Erhlangmiao since yesterday has been repeatedly captured and recaptured by the opposing combatants.

Although Marshal Wu, on the 20th instant, gave a prize of $2,000 to the 26th Mixed Brigade, which has been engaged in the struggle for Erhlangmiao, for its meritorious services, the stronghold, up to this morning, still remained in the hands of the Fengtien troops.

The 14th Chihli Division attacked the Fengtien forces on the hills to the north of Chinwangtao and have, after a desperate fight, finally captured seven hills in that sector. But the casualties of the Chihli Division in question were so many that the troops were compelled to be relieved by the 24th Chihli Division.

It is reported that the Fengtien forces, which have been holding themselves in the district of Pingshanying, have retreated to the foot of the hill with the result that the position has been regained by the Chihli troops. Marshal Wu Pei-fu, it is understood, has decided shortly to make a fierce attack with his two divisions of troops upon the Fengtien forces in the Shihmensai sector.

(Eastern News Agency)

Tientsin, Oct. 22.—Yesterday at 11 a.m. just after Marshal Wu Pei-fu got on board his special train at Shanhaikwan station on his way back to Chinwangtao, a cannon-ball fired by the Fengtien troops struck a coach next to the one in which Marshal Wu was sitting.

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, October 22.—Official reports from Shanhaikwan say that the Chihli troops last night regained the stronghold of Erhlangmiao and that the Fengtien forces are now attempting a furious attack upon the stronghold in question.

ROWDYS ATTACK LIBERALS; STONE ONE CANDIDATE

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 22.—Rowdyism and disorder at meetings are increasingly marking the election campaign in London, Glasgow and other centers.

Mr. Hogbin, the Liberal candidate for North Battersea, was struck in the face with a stone, while a woman spat at his wife. Wild scenes and stormy interruptions forced Sir Robert Horne on the second successive evening to abandon his attempt to make a speech at Glasgow and confine himself to answering questions. The singing of the "Red Flag" and constant interruptions and disorder marked Mr. Asquith's meeting at Paisley. A man struck Mr. Williams, the Conservative candidate for Reading, with a stick. Mr. Williams subsequently left the platform and himself evicted his assailant.

SETTLEMENT ON NIPPON DISPUTE URGED BY SOVIET

Karakhan Hopes For Success In Negotiations With Yoshizawa

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, October 22.—M. Karakhan, Soviet Envoy, last night addressed a note to Mr. Yoshizawa, Japanese Minister, in which he expressed his earnest desire that the present Soviet-Japanese conference will be successfully terminated as soon as possible. M. Karakhan stated in part:—

"As for various questions that remain unsettled, the difference of views on the part of the delegates of the two countries has been remarkably lessened. With regard to the question of to what extent Japan requires to secure her rights and interests in North Saghalien, I am of the opinion there still exists a hope of arriving at an agreement.

"It is, therefore, deeply to be regretted, if the general situation of the negotiations should be affected on account of the delay in the arrival of instructions from the Tokio Government concerning trifling matters. What the Soviet wants to ascertain is the exact time that the Japanese Government is able to withdraw Japanese troops from North Saghalien. I feel convinced that this bears the utmost significance for the success or otherwise of the Soviet-Japanese conference."

Chinwangtao Threatened As Flanking Movement Is Made By Fengtien Armies

Chang Tso-lin's Men Pushing Hard In Effort To Get Clear Of Hills And Force Chihli Retreat To Luanchow; Heavy Fighting In Progress

BY LAWRENCE IMPEY

(Correspondent for THE CHINA PRESS with the Chihli forces at Shanhaikwan)

Chinwangtao, Oct. 17.—In view of the extraordinary difficulty in obtaining information as to the state of things on the battle fronts of Shanhaikwan and Shihmenchai the writer decided to take a walk out to the west of Chinwangtao on the morning of the 17th and endeavor to ascend some hill in the vicinity from whence the shell bursts on the front at least could be watched.

The British and American military observers had gone up to Shanhaikwan the previous day and were watching events there, which turned out very fortunately for them, as the Fengtien forces started a very heavy bombardment of the Chihli lines on the afternoon of the 16th, following it up with an infantry attack as darkness fell. How much ground they may have gained, if any, is not yet known, and attention on that front was diverted by the appearance of the gunboat Chuyu, which shelled the Fengtien positions but withdrew rapidly upon a reply being made by the field artillery. In the course of the day some thirty or forty shells landed in the vicinity of the Shanhaikwan station and yards, but no very serious damage was done, the shells being only light calibre.

To continue the narrative from its original point. Your correspondent had an idea that perhaps the heavy bombardment on the Shaihaikwan-Santaokwan sector was more in the nature of a feint than anything else, the intention being to cause Marshal Wu Pei-fu to divert some reserves from the more vital point to the west at Shihmenchai. Therefore when he saw the Generalissimo leave for Shanhaikwan on a train early on the morning of the 17th he decided to test his judgment by moving out west and questioning the wounded that he might encounter as to the state of affairs out in that direction.

HELL BREAKS LOOSE

On leaving the native town of Chinwangtao it soon became apparent that something was doing toward beyond the foothills and in the neighborhood of Shihmenchai, for a steady machine gun and rifle fire could be heard in the distance interspersed by the thudding reports of the heavy artillery. Batches of wounded were coming across the fields, some on foot, some on donkeys, some on litters, and some riding pick-a-back their more fortunate comrades. All agreed that hell had broken loose over there, with a vague gesture to the west.

Not that their morale was broken, far from it, and the observer could not but be moved with a profound

Next Sunday's issue of THE CHINA PRESS Pictorial Section will consist exclusively of specially taken photographs showing the final phases of the Chekiang-Kiangsu conflict and of the role played by the Shanghai Volunteer Corps, which has moved Col. Gordon to say that he takes pride in commanding the Corps. As a supplement to letters home on the subject of the China war, this week's issue of the Pictorial is sure to be appreciated by those who have had to follow the progress of the conflict from a distance. Extra copies should be ordered now by writing to the Circulation Manager, THE CHINA PRESS.

SOLDIERS STILL LOOTING NEARBY, CHINESE ASSERT

Attacks On Women At Lunghwa And Woosung Reported In Vernacular Press

Reports of looting by soldiers stationed in the immediate vicinity of Shanghai continue to appear in the local vernacular press.

One report states that a band of ten soldiers at Lunghwa raided a rice shop in the village at noon on Wednesday, and after stealing money, jewellery and clothing, mistreated the wife and daughter of the proprietor of the shop, both of whom are now in a serious condition. The same band, it is reported, later raided a confectionery shop and stole $180.

Additional reports of similar occurrences in the vicinity of Kiangwan, where the principal portion of the former Chekiang armies are now located, also appear in the Chinese press, although information obtained by foreign observers fails to confirm them.

At Woosung, it is reported that Kiangsu soldiers have looted several houses and shops and have mistreated many women. One girl of 14, a maid in a home at Woosung, is reported to have been carried away by soldiers.

Another report in the Chinese press states that soldiers broke into the coffin of the first wife of Secretary of Foreign Affairs Wellington Koo, which is buried in a private cemetery near the West Gate of Kading, in the hope of obtaining jewels and other valuables which were supposed to have been buried in the coffin.

Communists In Reichstag Flee When Session Ends

Hasty Departures Are Staged To Escape Arrest On Warrants Charging Them With Treason

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, Oct. 22.—One of the results of the dissolution of the Reichstag is the abolition of the immunity of members and, consequently, the hasty departure from Berlin of the majority of the 62 Communist deputies against whom warrants for arrest have been issued on charges of treason, conspiracy, etc. Some are also accused of the manufacture and forgery of passports and other official documents, which were recently discovered by the police in a raid on a Berlin flat. The ex-Deputy, Herr Hollein, has already been arrested.

The dissolution was greeted with a sigh of relief, for it was recognised that it was impossible to conduct the affairs of the country properly with a Government always at the mercy of the votes of one party.

Political experts prophesy that the Left Parties will score at the expense of the Right in spite of a probable combination of the Nationalists and the People's Party against the Socialists.

The issue of the election will be continuance of the Marx Government's policy versus a new orientation, particularly in home affairs, by a reactionary Government.

The manifesto of the Nationalists says that the Party remains monarchist and nationalist. "Our glorious colors are black, white and red. Our will is firmer than ever to create a Germany free from Jewish and French domination."

The Nationalist newspapers declare that the main issue is monarchy versus Republic.

RUMOR OF RAID ON GOLF CLUB PROVES FALSE

Soldiers At Kiangwan Refrain From Entering Club's Premises

All was quiet at the Kiangwan race course and vicinity yesterday afternoon.

A visit to the race course grandstands where many of the 8,000 Chekiang troops, reported encamped there, are living found soldiers at rest or on guard.

Reports that the Shanghai Golf Club buildings had been raided by soldiers and lockers of members opened and ransacked were stoutly denied by the servants of the club who were on duty all day yesterday.

The Number One boy said that only the few officers stationed at the race course with the troops had even set foot on the grounds of the golf club, which is under the British flag.

Members at the club yesterday afternoon said their possessions had not been touched. Several twosomes and foursomes were making the rounds of the course.

The grounds of the race course are fairly clean, despite the half week encampment there of soldiers.

GOVERNMENT AT CANTON SHAKES AS CHEN NEARS

Suspension Of Business After Banks And Exchange Shops Close

(Eastern News Agency)

Canton, Oct. 22.—The troops under the command of General Lin Hu have already captured Tsengcheng. General Hung Chao-lin's troops, acting in co-operation with General Lin's forces, are now about to advance towards Shektan. Owing to financial circumstances, however, it will take some time before these anti-Government troops can take positive steps. In the meantime, they are striving to effect an understanding with Marshal Wu Pei-fu.

On the other hand, the Canton government is now in a very difficult position, having no sources from which it can obtain funds and provisions for the Government mercenaries, as a sequel to the recent incident. If this state of affairs should be allowed to take its own course any longer, the government will undoubtedly fail even if there were no attack by General Chen Chiung-ming's troops.

Owing to the suspension of business by all native banks and money-exchange shops, merchants in general also are obliged to suspend their business. Under these circumstances, if the government survives for a time, it cannot in the long run but bring down ruin upon itself. It may not be exaggeration to say, therefore, that the Canton Government is now at a most critical stage.

(Eastern News Agency)

Canton, Oct. 22.—Dr. Sun has decided to appoint Messrs. Lo Kuei-fang and Chen Yu-jen as inspector-general and commissioner, respectively, of the Canton Customs.

information, "Little Hsu" had left for Hongkong en route for England on the Dardanus.

In reply to this, the following further message has been received from Japan:

"Despite Reuter's reports that 'Little Hsu' had left for Hongkong, all the morning papers concur that he arrived at Nagasaki yesterday and afterwards left for Beppu, arriving under an assumed name. He admitted: 'I am Little Hsu' when confronted with his photograph.

In spite of the above messages from Japan, Reuter learns from an unquestionable source that 'Little Hsu' was placed on board the Dardanus and that the precautions taken were such as to preclude the possibility of his leaving that ship before she sailed for Hongkong.

Canton, Oct. 22.—Upon receipt of the report that General Hsu Shu-tseng, "Little Hsu," was placed under restraint and requested by the Shanghai Municipal authorities to leave the International Settlement, Dr. C. be cleared for trains to resume operation by Monday.

It was indicated that the majority of the Kiangsu forces will be returned to their homes or transferred to the aid of northern troops before regular service is resumed.

Marshal Chi was reported still at Chengfu yesterday with no intention of coming into Shanghai as was planned the first part of the week. It is expected the marshal will be going to Nanking shortly.

General Chang Yung-ming, the Hupeh Brigade Commander who entered Lunghua before any of the anti-Chekiang leaders, has consented to give up the Lunghua Yamen and proceed to North China to fight Chang Tso-lin. He will leave either today or tomorrow, instructing his forces to leave Shanghai before Sunday and to participate in the northern war. Four trains made up mostly of coaches of the Tientsin-Pukow Railway will convey the soldiery to Tientsin and thence to Shanhaikwan.

General Ma Liang who figured in the fight at Sungkiang left here on Wednesday with 500 of his picked men. Their destination was Mukden. It was apparent that the aged Mohammedan general will cast his lot with Chang Tso-lin and take the field against Marshal Wu Pei-fu.

The inland steamers for Kiangsu and Chekiang towns resumed their passenger and freight services yesterday. A large number of refugees started for their homeward journey on these steamers.

Mr. Jui Hung-ping, newly appointed Magistrate of Shanghai by the governor of Kiangsu, assumed his office yesterday, taking over the seal from Mr. Li Shou-tse, the acting magistrate. Through negotiations made by General Bei Pao-shan, General Chang Yung-ming, who had nominated Li Shou-tse for the job, withdrew his nominee and consented to Jui's assumption of the office. Before coming to Shanghai, Jui was mayor of Nantungchow.

Wins Promotion

MR. O. S. WATSON

The many Shanghai friends of Mr. O. S. Watson, formerly stationed here as Assistant Trade Commissioner of the United States Department of Commerce will be pleased to learn that he has received a well deserved promotion to the rank of Trade Commissioner. Mr. Watson since leaving Shanghai in August has been in charge of the Department's activities in South China.

Montmarte In Shanghai

Montmarte was transported to Shanghai last night in the amiable persons of Messieurs Edmond Vallee and Raymond Presles, dramatic artists, who gave snatches of sketches from current revues in the various Montmarte resorts in Paris.

Le Ciel, l'Enfer, la Boite a Fursy, le Chat Noir and le Rat Mort were all represented in bits of song and monologue that captivated an audience that quite filled the ballroom of the French Club where the program was given.

The two French artists are on a world tour with their presentation which they call "As-tu Revu'e Montmarte," their object being, apparently, to bring gay Paris, with its wit, its spice and its spirit to their compatriots abroad. That they have succeeded in Shanghai was evidenced by the hearty reception accorded them last evening and the gales of laughter which welcomed the subtleties of their humor and the absurdities of their farces. Among the notably lively little monologues was "L'Existence" and a tramcar divertissement. Another saure on a Sunday morning service with frequent breaks by the "choir," done entirely by a single artist, was particularly good.

commanded by Lu Yung-hsiang and Ho Feng-lin on the other, a renewed outbreak of hostilities would work havoc in Shanghai, apart from throwing the people into a restless state. Efforts at convincing the leaders of the gravity of the situation and the absolute necessity of displaying mutual confidence in order to save the situation were fortunately successful, and the final stage of the negotiations was reached.

FUNDS FOR DISARMAMENT OR RE-ENLISTMENT

"To deal with a problem of partially disbanding and partially re-enlisting an army of several tens of thousands of soldiers means that a special fund amounting to a very large sum must be at once created. The Kiangsu Provincial Treasury was declared to be depleted of funds for this purpose. The merchants and bankers got together and solved the problem amidst very great difficulties. The result was the withdrawal of troops from the business district, permitting the resumption of trade as usual.

"In view of the above references in the nature of a brief account of the narrow escape which Shanghai has had from being involved in the recent conflict, it is obvious that prudence calls for certain vital reforms conducive to the prevention of further prospects of war in this part of China. It is in this light that the following proposals are offered for the consideration of the public so that all our fellow-countrymen working through their organisations will combine efforts to achieve the aims in view lest the task of maintaining the prosperity of this city will in the future be again jeopardised.

ABOLITION OF POST OF DEFENCE COMMISSIONER

"This post has been and will always remain a bone of contention. This Chamber and other organisations have already appealed to the higher authorities to abolish once for all the post of Defence Commissioner of Sungkiang and Shanghai so that there will be no occasion for the stationing of large bodies of troops in Shanghai, thereby diminishing the military significance.

REMOVAL OF THE ARSENAL

"The Arsenal may be fairly regarded as a source of peril to Shanghai because its possession is a singular asset tending to military conquest. The higher authorities have been entreated to have this Arsenal dismantled and removed elsewhere for there is no solid reason for its being retained in Shanghai.

APPEAL TO THE PUBLIC

"The force of public opinion being essential to the successful accomplishment of reforms, this Chamber earnestly solicits the enthusiastic support of all leading organisations to join this Chamber in making the above appeals effective so that the stupendous sacrifices of the present conflict will not have been endured in vain. In conclusion we wish to emphasise the need of extensive generous co-operation in the very heavy task of rehabilitating trade conditions and of repairing devastated areas. These are factors which have an important bearing on the restoration of normal conditions here and as such deserve very sympathetic consideration. This Chamber begs to renew its heartfelt thanks to the City Chamber of Commerce, the trade organisations and charitable organisations for their warm co-operation in the matter of facing the severe trials to which the community of Shanghai have recently been subjected."

Militia Chief Of Fascisti Resigns; To Obtain New Post

(Reuter's Service)

Rome, Oct. 22.—Senator de Bono, Chief of the National Militia, against whom there was a serious outcry following the murder of Signor Matteotti, has resigned on the ground that his task of instilling the spirit of discipline and devotion to the interests of the country and to the King into the Fascists has ended.

Signor Mussolini has informed Signor de Bono that he will submit his name to the Cabinet for the Governorship of Italian Somaliland.

JONES IS WINNER OF U.S. AMATEUR GOLF TITLE PLAY

Beats Von Elm 9-8 In Final Match For Championship; Short Strokes Win

Ardmore, Pa., Sept. 27.—Success, long denied to Robert Tyre Jones Jr. of Atlanta, came today in the finals of the twenty-eighth annual championship of the United States Golf Association when he smothered George von Elm of Los Angeles, 9 and 8, in the 36-hole final at the Merion Country Club. It was the greatest margin ever attained by a champion since 1891, when C. B. MacDonald of Chicago defeated C. E. Sands of St. Andrews, 12 and 11, in the inaugural tournament at the Newport Golf Club.

Bobby first got under the golfing calcium in 1916, when as a 14-year-old boy he made his first shot at the championship over the same course on which he won the classic. In the intervening years he has tried and failed. Yesterday Bob Gardner, Francis Ouimet, Willie Hunter, David Herrou and Sweetser, and Max Marston, who had frustrated his ambitions in previous tournaments, already were listed among the earlier casualties, and only George von Elm, formerly Salt Lake City caddy, now a resident of Los Angeles, alone stood between Bobby and the goal of his ambition.

George had won enough honors in his own territory to be looked upon as a formidable rival for the redoubtable Georgian, but facing the greatest test of his career he was quite unequal to the task and was a beaten man at the end of the morning round when he was four down. There had been nothing in his play to warrant that he could make up his deficit, and the afternoon play which was followed by a gallery of about 4000 was a dismal recessional for the blond Coast player. He failed to win a single hole and after the first two holes it was evident he had not the ghost of a show.

It was a dismal ending to a tournament which contained only a few thrills, as the failure of Jessie Sweetser and F. Cyril Tolley, the mighty Britisher, to qualify threw a wet blanket on the start, while the luck of the draw threw most of the best players into the top bracket.

Jones coming through the top half defeated W. Thompson, the Canadian star, 6 and 5, D. C. Corkran 3 and 2, Rudy Knepper 6 and 4, and Francis Ouimet 11 and 10. Von Elm had a narrow escape when he won from R. Mackenzie of Washington at the 37th hole in the first round, and he defeated Lawson Walls of St. Louis 7 and 5, Eddie Briggs of New York 7 and 6, and went into the final round by eliminating Champion Max Marston 7 and 6.

THE MORNING GAME

Von Elm won the first hole in par 4, Jones being trapped on his second shot, out of the rough. Jones squared the match with a birdie 4 at the second hole.

Jones won the third hole in par 3, von Elm missing a six-foot putt. Von Elm squared the match by laying Jones a stymie at the fourth hole. Von Elm sank in 6, 1 over par.

"Sorry about that stymie, Bob," said von Elm, putting an arm around Jones.

The fifth hole was halved in par 4s.

Jones, after being trapped in the sixth, laid von Elm a stymie. Von Elm failed in trying to play it, and they halved the hole in 5, 1 over par.

Jones went into the lead again with a par 4 at the seventh, von Elm taking three putts.

Jones became 2 up by winning the eighth in par 4 at von Elm's approach being trapped.

The ninth was halved in par 3. Jones had a medal of 39 to the turn, and von Elm 42.

Jones was 2 up at the ninth.

JONES' 10-FOOT PUTT

The tenth was halved in par four. Jones became 3 up by making a birdie 3 at the eleventh, sinking a ten-foot putt at the most difficult par 4 hole of the course. The next was halved in par 4.

Two shots out of a trap lost Jones the 125-yard thirteenth hole. Von Elm, on the green with his pitch, got a 3 and became only 2 down.

The fourteenth was halved in par 4. Von Elm's good second pitch being offset by Jones' chipping dead on his third.

A stymie helped make Jones 3 up at the fifteenth. He got a par 4. Von Elm was off the green with his second and his long putt for a 4 was blocked by Jones' ball.

Jones became 4 up with a par 4 at the sixteenth. Von Elm took three putts, although inside Jones after each lay.

At the 215-yard seventeenth Jones with an iron was inside von Elm with a wood. The hole was halved in par 3.

The eighteenth was halved in 5, one over par, leaving Jones 4 up at lunch. Each had a bad second shot. Von Elm being trapped and Jones slicing to the rough. Bobby dubbed his third and put his fourth twenty feet from the pin. Von Elm's shot out of the trap hit the pin held by the referee and kicked back off the green. The Coast star put his fourth six feet from the pin and each took one putt.

The morning cards:

Jones, out
..... 543 745 443—39
Von Elm,
out .... 464 645 553—42
Jones, in
..... 434 444 435—35—74
Von Elm,
in ..... 444 345 535—37—79

VON ELM'S MISTAKE

Jones became five up by winning the 19th hole in five, one over par. Von Elm seemed to have got a five, but told the officials he had accidentally turned his ball over in addressing it for a putt and was charged a penalty stroke. Von Elm was in two traps and Jones topped a mashie shot after a drive of twenty-five the longer.

Jones took the 20th hole with a birdie four, his second of the day here, and became six up.

The 21st hole was halved in par three, von Elm having the better tee shot. They halved the 22nd in par five, von Elm's good approach putt offsetting two better woods and a superior pitch by Jones.

The twenty-third was halved in five, one over par, Jones laying a stymie when he missed a seven-foot putt. Jones hooked his second to the rough, while von Elm on the green's edge in tow.

Jones became seven up by winning the twenty-fourth in par four, von Elm taking three putts.

It was already obvious that von Elm was beaten, he dropping further and further behind in the course of the game. As may be noted from the above, Jones was never down after the first hole. He was 2 up at the turn, and for the round won seven holes against three for von Elm.

The afternoon card was as follows:

Jones, out 5 4 3 5 5 4 4 4 3—37
Von Elm,
out .... 6 5 3 5 5 5 6 4 4—43
Par, out 4 5 3 5 4 4 4 4 3—36

Tenth hole—Jones 4: Von Elm 4.

HIGH CLASS PLAYER

Jones victory was that of a class player whose performances in the national open championships have placed him on the highest pedestal it is possible for an amateur to attain, but competing against that kind of a player whose fame has been achieved in fields of lesser quality, and who still needs more campaigning to have the finish that is essential to rise to championship heights.

It was largely Jones' superiority in short shots with irons, as well as a slight edge on von Elm in putting, that gave the Southerner the match and the title.

There will be a turmoil and unrest among women beginning next Sunday. On that day the vampire will be in town. See her in "A Fool There Was" at the Isis Theatre next week.

Canion Knocks Out Smith In Big Fight At Carlton; Delivers Terrible Beating

Splendid Filipino Youngster Has Ex-Champ Out On His Feet; Bout Stopped By Referee, Then Continued

In the biggest ring fight ever staged in Shanghai Rufe Canion, the wonderful Filipino youngster, kayoed Matty Smith, former lightweight champ of the Allied armies and Australian Overseas title-holder, in the fifth round. Canion had Smith out on his feet in the fourth round, and scored two knockdowns here, though Matty got up again and pluckily carried on. In the fifth Rufe had the veteran punch silly again, and finally, when he dropped him with a right to the jaw following a stiff body punch, Matty's second jumped in and threw up the sponge, while Matty was bravely struggling to get on his feet again.

The promoters made no mistake when they advertised the fight as the biggest fistic event ever put on in this city. Matty put forth all he had, and got through again and again in the first couple of rounds, but Rufe's terrific punches were too much for him, and he went down to defeat in the 255th fight of his career. Youth, as always, had come into its own.

FIRST ROUNDS EVEN

The two fighters weighed in at 2:30 p.m., Canion scaling 122½ pounds and Smith 128. They climbed into the ring at eleven, both getting a big hand from the house, which was packed to the doors. Rufe sported a pair of yellow silk pants which got him an extra ovation.

McCoy, refereeing, got into the squared circle at about 11.10. After a few minutes of the usual preliminary stuff, the gong rang, and the two went to it.

Both fighters were somewhat wary in the first round. Each landed a few times, but nothing very serious went across. Canion was faster, but was willing to try infighting with Smith, though there was little of this at first, and the opening session was pretty even.

There was no big margin in the second round. Rufe landed first, but not hard, then landed a stiff left to the ear to which Matty responded with another of the same. There was some clinching, and infighting in which Matty failed to show anything on the Filipino boy.

In the third Smith started off with a right swing which failed to land, and after a little sparring got through with a good wallop. Rufe took it, however, and jarred Matty with a couple of return wallops which made the veteran cover up. Canion took the offensive, and landed several times, but Smith came back with a stiff left to the jaw, and a little later another wallop which cut Canion's lip. Rufe took it all, though, and bored in with rights and lefts which staggered Matty, landing two lovely wallops to the ear which had him half-groggy. Matty was continually covering up during most of this round, occasionally coming out of it with a wallop which hurt, but Rufe landed again and again over the other's defense, and Matty was unsteady on his pins as he went back to his corner.

CANION TAKES OFFENSIVE

In the fourth, after a moment's sparring, Rufe took the offensive again, coming through with lefts and rights which alternately straightened and staggered Matty, then dropped him for the count of seven. Matty, half-dazed, got to his feet again, and Rufe went in again with more of the same. Matty got in an occasional punch, but there was no longer much steam behind them, and in spite of his covering up Rufe knocked him down again. Matty was worse off this time, but staggered to his feet again and went on with it. Rufe bored in with vicious wallops, rights and lefts in succession. Matty hung on, covering up, but appeared to be out on his feet, and Referee McCoy finally called the fight, giving Canion the decision.

This was met with a roar from all over the house. Knute Hanson, seconding Smith, jumped into the ring and insisted that the fight continue. Matty, though groggy, was quite aware of what was going on, and also wanted to continue. There was pandemonium for a couple of minutes, but Rufe was perfectly willing to go on, and after discussion between Referee McCoy and Messrs. Rodger, and Himrod, judges, it was decided to carry on.

After a moment Rufe got in again, but Matty had got his bearings and landed one which opened Rufe's cut lip. Canion paid no attention to this, but went right to it. Matty covered up, but it did't help much, and only the bell saved him.

In the fifth came the finish. Matty was already becoming a picture no artist could paint. Both eyes were swelling, and his nose and lips were bleeding, but he went gamely in again. Rufe went after him once more. The final knock down came with a left to the ribs and a right which got through to the jaw.

Rufe got a splendid ovation. Matty is popular, but the Filipino boy fought a splendid fight, and the fans appreciated it. Canion's only injuries were his badly cut lip and his hands, he having damaged the knuckles of both hands in his terrific swings. Matty, however, was a sight to behold, and both Canion and Referee McCoy were spattered with his blood. Matty Smith was beaten, but beaten by one of the finest boys who has ever steppel into the ring in Shanghai.

Leonardo Garcia, the premier featherweight here, challenged the winner of tonight's fight, and will meet Rufe for the second time next Thursday. It should be some fight.

FORRAL AND DE DIOS DRAW

The special event between Benny Forral and Faustino de Dios, for eight rounds, resulted in a draw. It was an excellent fight, which at ordinary times would have been worth while inself, but last night was quite put in the shade by the big affair. De Dios had five pounds on Benny, and needed it all, as Benny landed again and again in spite of Faustino's speed.

De Dios landed less frequently but more substantially. He tried several times with haymakers which would have made Forral kiss the canvas for a long long time if they had gotten through, but they landed on empty air, and Benny responded with left jabs and right swings, drawing first blood in the fifth round, when he cut Faustino's lip.

The draw decision was very well received, the crowd concurring. It will be interesting to see these boys matched again.

PETE DOES WELL

Flores was awarded a very questionable decision over Pete in the second event. Pete is trying to live up to his moniker of "Terrible", and did very well last night. Though he showed no more science than usual, he landed quite as successfully as Felipe, and in one or two rounds had somewhat the best of it. He was outweighed three pounds by the other boy.

Pete's wild swings generally went astray, but the same is true of Felipe's, though Flores cut Pete over the eye in the last round. In the wild swinging they indulged in, both boys hit low several times, apparently quite accidentally.

Pete did well, and in the opinion of many was entitled to a draw decision, but the referee gave the fight to Flores, the decision being met with hooting and booing from all over the house.

The curtain-raiser, between Mah Jongg and Hilario, was a comical slamfest which aroused considerable laughter. Both boys are as graceful as they are scientific, and put up a wonderful exhibition of how not to box. The crowd enjoyed it to the full.

The Vampire has donned her sequins and shoulder straps and is ready for action. See her in "A Fool There Was" at the Isis Theatre beginning Sunday.

Local Football Starts

With seven league games scheduled for tomorrow, and several school and other matches both tomorrow and Sunday, the football season is getting into full swing. Most of the clubs have already gotten into good shape, and there will be some close matches this weekend.

The official fixtures set for tomorrow by the Shanghai Football Association are as follows:

FIRST DIVISION

Shanghai Football Club vs. Police R. C., S.F.C. ground. Referee: R. G. Herbert.

Shanghai Recreation Club vs. Portuguese S. A., S.R.C. ground. Referee: S. C. Guard.

SECOND DIVISION

Shanghai Football Club vs. Jewish R. C. Police ground. Referee: C. W. Cooper.

Shanghai Recreation Club vs. Deutscher F. C. Widows Monument ground. Referee: R. R. Jones.

Police Recreation Club vs. R. Navy F. C. Police ground.

St. Xaviers F. C. vs. Socci F. C. Hongkew Park. Referee: J. J Brooks.

Portuguese S. A. vs. Hanbury School. Hongkew Fark. Referee: L. Leitao.

All games commence at 3.00 p.m. prompt.

S. F. C. vs. POLICE

The First Division match between the Shanghai Football Club and the Police promises to be an excellent contest. The S.F.C., which tied with the Recs for first division honors last year and only lost by the latter's better goal average, is fully as strong this season, while the Police have been strengthened by a number of excellent new players. The S.M.P. team should put up a fine showing this year.

The line-up for this match is as follows:

S. F. C.—J. E. R. Harris, J. K. Ewing, J. B. Brown, E. C. Barker, A. S. Phillips, A. A. Gowan, A. F. Deer, W. E. Dailey, L. Goldman, L. J. Coulcher and Alan Smith.

Police.—Isaacs, Clissold (Capt.), Biggs, Munson, Gash, Hurry, Hotchkiss, Pridmore, Turner, Boddy and Wilkinson.

In the other first division match the Shanghai Recreation Club, last season's champions, will meet the Portuguese Sporting Association's team on the Recs' grounds.

ALL SHANGHAI vs. NAVY STARS

The Shanghai Football Association will play the opening football game on the Pioneer Athletic Field Sunday afternoon, when they will meet a picked Navy team from the numerous British ships now in harbor. The local team will be an All-Shanghai aggregation which should prove itself a very fast and smooth combination.

The new ground is situated at the corner on Rue Amiral Bayle and Rue de l'Observatoire, and play will commence at 3 p.m.

The All Navy team will very probably give the locals quite a scrap, for with the two big ships, Carlisle and Despatch, as well as a number of destroyers and gunboats which are now in harbor, they should be able to field a team as good as the Shanghai boys can produce.

The players who will represent Shanghai are: Remedios, Turner, Quayle, Phillips, Crawford, Falconer, T. Madar, A. Sofouiis, Goldman, Coulcher, and J. Johanssen.

School Tennis

The American School tennis team journeyed down to Yangtszepoo and showed up well against the Varsity team of Shanghai College yesterday afternoon, winning three of the four matches played.

The chief attraction of the match was the spectacular game between P. L. Hwang and Hager. Both players were in excellent form and fought a gruelling fight. The college player managed to win after losing the first set.

The remaining three singles were won by the school boys, and the doubles match had to be stopped on account of darkness after the college men had the better of one set and two games.

The scores were as follows:

P. L. Hwang won from Hager, 7-9, 8-6, 6-4.

C. L. Tong won from Smith, 3-6, 6-5, 7-5.

H. Y. Ling won from Gray, 3-6, 6-2, 6-2.

G. D. Hwang won from Pilley, 4-6, 6-5, 7-5.

Non-Interference Policy Must Stand, Says Obata

(Eastern News Agency)

Tokio, Oct. 23.—Interviewed by press representatives, Mr. Obata, ex-Japanese Minister to Peking, made the following statement:

"Despite some unwarrantable criticism directed at the announcement recently made by the Japanese Government in favor of non-interference in China's internal affairs, it is to be pointed out that Japan's position vis-a-vis China has always been fixed and unchangeable.

"The traditional policy Japan has hitherto adopted towards China is by no means of such a nature that is to be altered by the peace and war in China. It is my conviction that racially speaking, the Japanese and Chinese nations have many points in common and that it is very difficult or rather impossible for these two nations to display their full activities on the international stage unless they act in entire concert for the sake of their co-existence and co-prosperity.

"Japan, therefore, in forming her policy towards China, takes the interests and welfare of the 400,000,000 Chinese people into her consideration, and does by no means adopt such a policy that is not wanted by Chinese.

"I take the view that the present disturbances in that country are without doubt an outcome of the struggle for power on the part of the opposing factions, and have not arisen from the motive of interests and welfare for the whole nation of China. Such being the case, if there be any argument, advocating Japan's assistance either to Marshal Chang or to Marshal Wu Pei-fu, that means to say that Japan's traditional policy towards China should be entirely changed and this move we will never adopt at any cost, for, we know, the consequences must decidedly be that if we should do so we are sure to incur the ill-feeling of the 400,000,000 Chinese people."

NAVAL RESERVE SCHOOLS TO BE OPENED BY U. S.

First Courses Are Planned At Universities At Capital And Annapolis

(Reuter's American Service)

Washington, Oct. 2.—The first courses in the newly-established schools for reserve naval officers will be operative in October at George Washington University, Washington, D.C., and St. John's College, Annapolis, Md., with half a dozen institutions in line for similar cooperative effect. Among those proffering assistance is the University of Seattle.

Planned along the general line of the R.O.T.C. of the army, the navy schools are designed to furnish select and trained material for the commissioned reserve. It is expected that the privilege of participating in the practical cruise made each summer by the academy classes to European ports will be a strong incentive to civilian students.

The course will cover the regular four-year tuition of the college student, at least three hours a week on naval subjects being required the first year. Subjects included in the classification will be credited toward the university degree.

Students selecting the naval course will be enrolled as midshipmen, naval reserve, and upon completion will be commissioned as reserve ensigns. While on active duty the midshipmen will receive the pay of their grade, amounting to $89.00 per month. The first uniform outfit will be furnished gratis. Upon graduation, the officer will receive two months' full pay annually, regardless of whether called to duty or not.

Spectre Of Famine Looms In Flood Areas In North

That famine conditions are already beginning to prevail in the regions flooded by the summer rains is indicated by two reports recently received by the China International Famine Relief Commission. Both of these reports cover areas in the Chihli district.

The first report which was submitted by Rev. W. T. Hobert of the Methodist Mission covers the region, to the North and South of Peking.

Dr. Hobart reports that the two hsiens in this district which have suffered the most are Ku-an and Pahsien. A total of 517 villages have been flooded and it is estimated that 200,000 people will need relief. Already four-fifths of the population are without food and are eating chaff. The other fifth of the population have food on hand to last possibly three months.

Hardly any land in these hsiens can be planted with winter wheat and some will not be available for a spring planting as the water still lies eight feet deep over the fields. Pahsien can be reached only by boat even now, and it is possible to go from there direct to Tientsin by boat over the flooded areas.

The suffering here will be intense and the loss of life great unless adequate relief is brought to these people.

The second report was received from Mr. John T. Bickford of the Presbyterian Mission at Shunteifu and covers conditions in five hsien in the Shunteh Fu region, Jen Hsien, Chu Lu, Kwang Tsung, Ping Hsiang and Chi Chai.

400 VILLAGES IN NEED

Omitting Kwangtsung, whose magistrate refuses to ask for government help on the ground that people must be actually starving and freezing to death before such aid is granted and such conditions do not now prevail in his hsien, there are about four hundred villages, or half the total number in this region which will need help. The official reports, which so far as it is possible to check them seem to be accurate, list from one to two-thirds of the families in these villages as famine sufferers, or a total of between 40,000 and 50,000 people for the district who will need relief.

Already many of the men have left the villages in search of work and as conditions become more acute, many more of the people will leave their homes in search of food.

In places the prospects of a winter wheat crop are good, but in large areas the fields are still mud flats or covered with water and cannot be planted this fall.

Some relief measures are being taken locally, money has been distributed and there is talk of several construction projects to be undertaken as relief work, but the measures proposed are entirely inadequate to meet the situation, and this region, too, will need outside relief on a large scale if untold suffering and misery during the coming winter is to be avoided.

GIFT OF $5,000

The National Flood Relief Drive announces a gift of $5,000 received from Hongkong. This money was collected by Mr. Ho, a nephew of Sir Robert Ho Tung.

The Shantung Committee of the China International Famine Relief Commission has begun an intensive campaign for the collection of funds for the Drive in that Province. The Premier Dr. W. W. Yen has telegraphed the Shantung Governor for his support in this effort.

SOOCHOW QUIET; BUSINESS GETS STARTED AGAIN

Soldiers Are Orderly After Payment Of Wages By Marshal Chi

(Special Correspondence)

Soochow, Oct. 22.—Soochow is very quiet now and business is proceeding in a small way. The restaurants, hotels and theaters outside of the city wall are still closed. From morning to night hundreds of soldiers, most of them with bandages wander about the streets aimlessly. Immediately after the cessation of hostilities these soldiers acted very unruly and there were reports of looting but now since they have been paid there is no trouble and they are paying for what they get.

Marshal Chi Hsieh-yuan gave $5 to every wounded Kiangsu soldier and $30 to every wounded officer and according to report three times as much to wounded soldiers and officers of military units sent down from the North to assist him. This money was raised by the Soochow Chamber of Commerce and turned over to Marshal Chi to be used among the troops to prevent looting.

The railroad between Shanghai and Soochow is still blocked with trains filled with soldiers and military equipment, which explains some of the difficulties in resuming railway operation. Just what the Shanghai-Nanking Railway will do with all of the equipment brought across the Yangtsze from the Tientsin-Pukow Line is hard to say. Apparently the Shanghai-Nanking line now has twice as much rolling stock as before the beginning of the war.

If Your Vampire Says: "Kiss Me My Fool"— Choose the Nearest Exit— Run, Don't Walk

In the William Fox picture sensation coming to the Isis Theatre, "Kiss me, my Fool" stands out dramatically.

The Vampire—the smiling tool of Satan—uses it with telling force to her victims who grovel at her feet, whither she has dragged them with sinuous smile and luring charms.

"Kiss Me, My Fool," makes a stage in the career of each man where the end for him is near; where the vampire has satisfied her love for ruin and is ready to toy with another heart.

So look around for the nearest exit when Your Vampire says: "Kiss me, my Fool," and run—Don't walk.

Civilians Put To Death For Looting At Huchow

(China Press Correspondence)

Huchow, Chekiang, Oct. 18.—Two men have just been executed here in Huchow by orders of the Civil Magistrate for taking part in the looting on September 20th when the soldiers raided the city.

One was a man twenty-nine years of age. He entered a pawn shop outside the west gate of the city when the soldiers entered, and carried away some of the things for his own use. The frightened shop-keepers were unable to protect themselves even against the bad element of the people who took advantage of their helpless condition. After the newly appointed magistrate came, charges were brought against this man and upon investigation found to be true, the sentence was duly carried out.

The other one executed was a youth of seventeen, son of a very respectable businessman in Huchow. He is reported to have entered the Bank of Communications when the soldiers forced an entrance and picked up thirty-five dollars in bills carelessly dropped by the soldiers in making their getaway. Later this money was returned, when charges were brought against him. He is said to have been swung up in the yamen by his hands, had his head pulled back and water poured slowly into his nostrils. Under these conditions he confessed that he took part in the robbery and looting, and accordingly was executed.

A third man has been tried for taking part in the looting and condemned to death. Today a notice was posted by the officials in a prominent place stating that this man was condemned because he took part in the looting of a certain large silk store, and his execution is to take place immediately. The proprietor of this silk establishment has protested that this man did not take part in the looting of his store, but that it was all done by the soldiers themselves. Therefore he demands that the notice be taken down or that the name of his store be removed entirely from the statement. Nothing definite has as yet been learned regarding any stay of execution or even a reconsideration of the case.

600 DEAD ON FIELDS

A very gruesome aftermath of the war, which is inevitable wherever fighting is done, was presented to the sight of those visiting the battle fields in the areas west of the Great Lake. At Szean, where fighting between the Chekiang forces and the Anhwei troops had continued several days, it was found that some six hundred dead had been left on the fields. Of this entire number, less than twenty were Chekiang soldiers.

The Anhwei soldiers who outnumbered the Chekiang troops on that front perhaps six or more to one, were killed by the score with the field guns planted on Chisan mountain.

It is said that the Anhwei ammunition had been completely exhausted on the last day of fighting, and they planned to retreat the next day, but no guns were fired the next morning and they became interested. After a little investigation they found the Chekiang forces had themselves withdrawn. They then followed without completing the task of burying their dead. This task was left to the Red Cross and the civilians living in that part of the country.

As it was several days before the people dared to venture out, the task of burying became all the more disagreeable as well as all the more necessary. So, many were buried in graves not a foot deep, while others merely had a few baskets of dirt put on them.

MORE NEAR CHANGSING

On the sector north of Changsing where the Chekiang and Kiangsu forces were fighting, some seven or eight hundred dead were left. The Red Cross from Changsing and from Ihing helped to bury them. Coffins were provided by the army for some, others were provided for by the Red Cross societies, while of necessity many had to be buried without coffins.

In many places the rain interfered with the task of burying, so the workmen would merely put a little dirt on the body, often leaving hands and feet uncovered, and sometimes even the head exposed.

The body of one soldier was found astride a short tree high up on the north side of a mountain, which rose perpendicular from the base. There was absolutely no way to reach the point where he was, either from above or below, so he could not be taken down for burial. It is supposed he was observing the opposing forces from the top of a hill when he was struck with a bullet and plunged below, and was caught on this shrub of a tree growing out of the side of the mountain.

More than twelve deaths among the people in the vicinity of Szean have been reported due to fright. The Anhwei soldiers returning from Huchow and Sungkiang mistreated and impressed the people into service to such an extent that they have literally been scared to death. It is said they become severely frightened, get sick for a day and die. Truly the common people of China who do not carry guns to battle, but try to live humble, peaceful and useful lives, are the real sufferers in war.

ANOTHER MOTHER'S TRIBUTE TO BABY'S OWN TABLETS.

Says They Saved Her Baby's Life

No higher eulogy could be paid a medicine than that contained in the brief statement of Mrs. Fred. Rose, South Bay, Ontario, Canada, who writes:—"I feel that Baby's Own Tablets saved the life of our baby when she had cholera infantum and I would not be without them."

Unlike most other medicines, Baby's Own Tablets are pleasant in taste and therefore the little ones like them. They are absolutely pure, and so can be freely given even to the youngest and most delicate infant in arms with perfect confidence in their safety and goodness. The first action of the Tablets is on the stomach and bowels, which they gently stimulate to healthy action; they assist teething and allay its pains; they check diarrhoea, expel worms, relieve colic, croup and colds, soothe the nerves, induce peaceful, health-giving sleep by removing the causes of sleeplessness in a natural way.

Your chemist sells Baby's Own Tablets or post free 60 cents the vial, from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 60 Kiangse Road, Shanghai.

ORDER ISSUED BY COL. GORDON HAS PRAISE FOR CORPS

Fine Spirit Displayed By All Ranks During Period Of Service

Col. W. F. L. Gordon, Commandant of the Shanghai Volunteer Corps, yesterday issued a special order of the day expressing his keen appreciation of the soldierly spirit, the discipline, and the loyalty and cheerfulness of all ranks. He makes particular reference to the demeanor of the Volunteers on the portion of the Settlement Boundary which borders on Chapei, which Col. Gordon states "did more to keep the peace on both sides of the frontier than any other factor." They proved themselves worthy of the trust reposed in them, and Col. Gordon is proud to be their Commandant.

The order is as follows.

SHANGHAI VOLUNTEER CORPS

(Special Order of the Day)

On dispersal of the Corps after forty-five days of service safeguarding the Foreign Community and Settlement during the recent period of Emergency, I desire to record my keen appreciation of and admiration for the fine soldierly spirit displayed by all Units and all ranks. The discipline was such as to command the lively respect of the whole Foreign and Chinese Community and the soldier-like manner in which the irksome duties of guarding the Boundaries were carried out was worthy of seasoned regular troops.

On the personal side of the services rendered by the Corps I thank all ranks for the loyalty and cheerfulness with which "duties" have been carried out and, knowing as I do that those duties have been a hard test of soldierly qualities, I have nothing but admiration for the manner in which they were performed. It is not going too far to say that the demeanor of the Shanghai Volunteer Corps on that portion of the Boundary which abuts on Chapei did more to keep the peace on both sides of the frontier than any other factor. To you was allotted the most threatening sector of the line, as was your right, and you proved yourselves worthy of the trust reposed in you. You make me very proud to command you.

I thank you.

W. F. L. Gordon,
Colonel Commandant S.V.C.
Shanghai Oct. 23, 1924.

Severe Drought In Cascades Region

(Reuter's American Service)

Tacoma, Wash., Oct. 2.—All records for drought were broken in western Washington, the area between the Cascade mountains and the Pacific Ocean, in the weather year ending September 1. This region generally is associated with heavy rainfall, but in the last year only 22.79 inches of rain were measured by the weather bureau here. Records dating from 1884 make the average annual moisture 40.79. The banner year for rain was 1897, when the fall was 52.76.

Old-timers commonly assert that the rainfall is diminishing as the forests that once covered western Washington like a mat are being cut away.

The Young Wife

should, above all, keep herself in excellent health.

Her mind should be free from depression and that "tired feeling." Abnormal pains and aches should be viewed with genuine alarm.

Nothing is so really helpful in such cases, as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound tones up the whole system. By restoring and keeping the body healthy and normal, it frees the mind from depression and allows genuine happiness.

It is Sold at All Chemists

"My mother recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to me before childbirth. I was irritable and easily worried. I lost my nervousness, had a better appetite and felt like a different person entirely. I hope this letter will help other women."

Notice

I was on the 23rd. of September 1924 appointed by General Ho Feng Lin and Admiral Lin Kien Chang, Assistant Director of the Kiangnan Docks and during my tenure of office as such I always endeavoured to carry out my duty in preserving the property of the said Docks. When my superior officers ordered the Director, Mr. Chao Ching Hua to raise funds to meet urgent needs by mortgaging the materials stored in the said Docks I did not take the least part in such mortgages and refused to sign any of them as it was not part of my duty to do so.

Lest inaccurate reports may be circulated regarding my position in the matter this notice is published to inform the public of the true facts.

BOOM SETS IN TEA CONSUMPTION ALL OVER WORLD

'Drink More Tea' Propaganda Brings Higher Prices As Supplies Increase

The British public has been disappointed in its expectations that it would secure its teas at four pence a pound less following the reduction in the tax on teas from eight pence to four pence a pound in the British budget. There was an immediate reduction of our pence, says the London "Daily Express," but since then most retailers have increased the price by two pence and still higher prices are probable. The public is naturally asking if any rise in the retail price is justified. The reply of the trade is that the rise is inevitable, and that it is due to the large increase in the world's consumption of tea.

Britain is drinking much more tea. Although imports rose by 60,000,000 pounds for the twelve months ended with June last, stocks at the end of that period were only about 11,000,000 pounds higher. Figures for Indian exports for the twelve months ended March, 1924, show that many other countries also largely increased their demands. Prohibition was responsible for an additional 3,000,000 pounds sent to America. France and Turkey each took twice as much, and Germany's imports rose from 86,810 pounds to 389,307 pounds. Astonishing increase in tea drinking have taken place in Italy, Japan, Persia, Arabia, the Straits Settlements, China, Hongkong, Africa and Mauritius. The net result is that India's exports of tea rose from 265,468,342 to 306,074,665 pounds in one year.

PROPAGANDA EFFECTIVE

Extensive "drink more tea" propaganda in the United States and elsewhere is calculated to add still further to the consumption. New tea plantations only come into bearing slowly and tea planters have recently shown discrimination in plucking, choosing, only the finer leaves. Expansion in the supply of tea to meet the enhanced demand has thus been restricted and higher prices have followed rapidly. That these higher prices are expected to continue is shown by the fact that some companies have already been able to sell their entire output for as far ahead as 1927.

Enormous profits are being made by some of the tea plantations. Four leading companies in the James Finlay group each declared double dividends this year. Within three years the profits of each of these four companies have increased from four to six times the earlier figures. Recent dividends of other companies chosen at random have been 80, 50, 40, 30 and 32 percent. One company earned last year £50,000 more than its entire capital of £200,000. Throughout the list of companies dealt in on the London Stock Exchange bonuses, higher dividends and leaping share quotations have been the general rule.

BLENDERS AIR THEIR VIEWS

In a summary of views of representative tea houses, J. Lyons & Co., London, are quoted as saying: "The public expect from us a standard blend of tea which we are obliged to maintain. In our operations we have to depend on the public market for a certain amount of our supply. When prices go against us, as they have during the past ten days, we are compelled in order to maintain our standard to put up our price to the public." The Liptons say: "What other companies have done is none of our affair and will have no bearing on our policy. Some time ago we established our price and have not departed from that. We do not contemplate increasing tea price at this time." The secretary of the Grocers' Mutual Buyers' Association, after citing recent advances, says the public is getting the worst value in cheap teas in the history of tea production. A leading London firm or importers points out that the market in the best grades has been extremely strong and active, while lower qualities have shown, if anything, a tendency to fall off slightly in price. In the opinion of an expert, there is an ever growing demand from the public for better quality teas, even if higher prices have to be paid for them. Cheap, low quality tea is out of favor even among the poorer peoples.

BRITISH TRADE WITH THE SOVIET IS NOW REVIEWED

Doubt If MacDonald Pact With Russia Means Better Future

London, Sept. 6.—For reasons only too well known to most people, British trade with Russia has been under a cloud for some years past. Whether Mr. MacDonald's treaty mith the Soviet authorities marks the beginning of better things is a matter of uncertainty, but at all events its signature has served to bring Russian affairs into the limelight once more. The occasion may not, therefore, be inopportune for a brief review of our pre-war commerce with the Russian Empire, even if it serves no more useful purpose than to measure the width of the gulf separating the present from the recent past.

RUSSIA STOOD SIXTH

Ten years ago the annual statement of the Trade of the United Kingdom showed that Russia stood sixth in the list of our customers, and held the same position among the nations of the world from whom we obtained our external supplies. In 1913 the total value of our exports and re-exports amounted to £634,-800,000, and of this value the share taken by Russia was 4.4 percent, and amounted to £27,-700,000. In that year the total value of our imports was £768,-700,000, and our purchases from Russia amounted to £40,300,000, or 5.2 percent. The combined value of our imports from and exports to Russia amounted to £68,000,000, and the great bulk of these cargoes was carried in British ships, and thus considerably increased the value of our trade with Russia.

DETAILS OF IMPORTS

Coming to the details of our imports, we find that before the war Russia was the chief source of our supply of imported eggs, sending us £4,745,000 worth, or more than twice the value of the eggs that we bought from Denmark (£2,297,000). Russia, also, was second in the supplies of butter and barely, of which the value of our imports from her was £3,831,000 and £1,847,000 respectively. She supplied us with oats to the value of £865,-000, and maize to the value of £490,000, and with bacon to the value of £685,000. Since that date great bacon factories have been erected at a point where the three provinces of Tamboy, Orel, and Voronezh meet. Russia stood third in the list of countries supplying us with oats and maize, fourth in the list as regards bacon. As regards our imports of raw materials, Russia stood in 1913 easily first in her supply of wood and timber, sending us £13,622,000 worth, or almost half of our total imports. She also sent us more flax than any other country did, its value amounting to £2,807,000. She was second only to the United States in the value of petroleum, with which she supplied us, and sent us almost our entire import of manganese ore. The following table shows the value of our principle imports from Russia in the last pre-war year:

Food Imports.	Value.
Eggs	£4,745,000
Butter	3,831,000
Wheat	1,985,000
Barley	1,847,000
Oats	865,000
Bacon	685,000
Maize	490,000
Raw Materials.
Wood and timber	£13,622,000
Flax	2,807,000
Petroleum	1,028,000
Seeds of all kinds	916,000
Hides (raw)	580,000
Manganese ore	463,000
Hemp	432,000

JAPAN EMERGES FROM PERIOD OF READJUSTMENT

Export Trade Development Is Only Goal To Reach In The Future

Tokio, Oct. 15.—"After the storm comes the calm" is being exemplified now in this country's economic and financial circles, as Japan has just emerged from a prolonged period of re-adjustment, according to Mr. Seijiro Miyajima, president of the Nisshin Spinning Company, one of the largest spinning plants in the Orient. Mr. Miyajaima said:—

"A new field of activity has been opened throughout the financial and economic circles and the long business depression which continued since the termination of the Great War will give way to a gradual improvement next spring. As a matter of fact, Japan was expecting a business recovery but the September 1923 calamity blocked rehabilitation. This calamity, however, served on the one hand to naturally re-adjust the country's economic and financial difficulties and a number of business establishments which could not stand the severe test went under, thus leaving today such business companies as were able to withstand the test of depression. The calamity quickened the re-adjustment of various enterprises.

WHAT MUST BE THE GOAL?

"Then, what goal must the country's business circles attain after the readjustment and what measures must the financial circles adopt after this bitter experience? The old term 'Development of the Export Trade' is the only goal the country must reach in the future. In such a country as Japan where little natural resources are to be had the only way to combat international competition is in its labor. In other words, raw materials imported from other countries to Japan are refined here for reexportation and this shows the majority of profits Japan realize from the international market. Under the circumstances, the exportation of enormous quantities must be made and thereby earn large profits by means of labor.

—"There is nothing difficult in these measures to encourage exportation. Industrialists and business men must not rely upon the protection of the State. This is the first requisit.e The second measure lies in the lowering of the money rate. Japan's high money rate is in striking contrast to that in England and America. While an average money rate in England and America is 4 percent, Japan's per diem interest rate is 2.6 sen (for Spinning Bill) and this means 9.5 percent per annum. However low the steamer freight as well as labor in Japan is, the wide difference between these rates of interest cannot be reached. Not only this high money rate is applied to the case when merely funds are needed but also to the occasion when funds for purchasing raw cotton is required.

WILL FEEL HIGH USURY RATE

"Almost all business corporations, Japanese as well as others, who are interested in the country's business will keenly feel this high usury rate. The reduction of the money rates of the Bank of Japan and the restriction or extension of the reserve fund alone will not bring about efficiency. Simultaneously with the administrative and financial re-adjustment must be the extreme retrenchment policy aiming at saving a surplus of about Y500,000,000 a year. The redemption of loans must be also made. These factors will result in an abundance of money throughout the country and money rates will naturally be lowered.

"Another important thing in this connection is the necessity of extending the sphere of business interest and sales in foreign markets. For instance, China has been the heaviest customer for cotton manufactures but the Nisshin Spinning Company has extended its sphere of sales to Africa and Toyo Spinning Mill started exportation there, too. When the domestic demand for cotton manufactures increases, the exports will decrease and vice-versa. The balance of supply and demand must be made by means of the extension of the sales market for this line of trade," concluded Mr. Miyajima.

BILLS OF LADING PROBLEM IS NOT SETTLED IN JAPAN

Question Of Issuance Prior To Sailing Is Cause Of Dissension

The question of issuing bills of lading previous to shipping of cargo has not yet been settled among the Japanese shipping concerns in Yokohama. The problem arose when the prevailing custom was opposed by the Admiral Line and Pacific Mail Companies a month ago. These companies, have not been issuing bills of lading previous to the shipping of silk and general cargo to the shipper for several weeks.

This, however, is damaging these shipping concerns in Yokohama, it is reported. Hitherto the Admiral Line stood in the first rank in receiving silk in Yokohama for American ports because the company has been operating fast vessels on the trans-Pacific service. Beginning with September 1, the shipping firm has been receiving smaller amounts of silk and other cargo in Yokohama, it is said. The Admiral Line received during August 7,050 bales silk in Yokohama for American ports. During September, 2,352 bales of silk were received at the same port. This shows a decrease of 4,698 bales in comparison to the preceding month.

The Pacific Mail contracted during August to ship 781 bales of silk in Yokohama and during September, 679 bales at the same port, a decrease of 132 bales over the total of the preceding month. The total decrease of the amount contracted by the two American shipping concerns is 4,830 bales.

The exportation of silk through the Canadian Pacific, Osaka Shosen Kaisha, and Blue Funnel companies during September was less than that in the preceding month. But only a 2 percent decrease was noted by these shipping concerns in the past in comparison to that in August, while the two American shipping concerns experienced approximately a 60 percent.

The President McKinley belonging to the Admiral Line received 495 bales of silk in Yokohama on October 3. The Siberia Maru, sailed from the same port for San Francisco on October 1, with 2,421 bales of silk, and the Empress of Asia, of the Canadian Pacific Company received 2,053 bales silk on October 4.

Learning The Tricks Of Modern Warfare

CHINA'S latest adoption of modern and up-to-date ideas in warfare is the establishment of a censorship upon mail sent by foreign correspondents stationed near the fighting lines in Manchuria to foreign newspapers in other parts of China. Within the last few days The China Press, for instance, has received letters from its correspondent with the Chihli Army near Shanhaikwan and about all that the censor left of the letters was the first and last paragraphs. In some cases black ink was used to make the parts of articles, to which the censor objected, illegible.

Naturally it is exasperating to receive an important dispatch from the front containing news regarding some significant military engagement and then to have had the censor eliminate everything except the first sentence which started out, "An important encircling movement was started this morning at (deleted) but when the troops reached (deleted) they met (all the rest deleted).'

After puzzling over these censored letters trying to make heads or tails of them, our first inclination was to consign the censor to the front lines of this important military engagement, the news regarding which he had deleted. But after further consideration based upon a none too dim remembrance of what happened during the World War, we decided to "grin and bear it"—to use a commonplace expression—the same expression applied to previous experiences of this sort during the World War.

Outside of this handicap the correspondents sent with the Chihli forces to report the war from that side have had excellent sleeping and eating facilities furnished them on a private car supplied by General Wu Pei-fu, but outside of this most of the correspondents might just as well have remained at the Grand Hotel de Peking in the Capital. They were not permitted to visit the front lines and every attempt to get out into the country was gently but firmly discouraged. Correspondents sent to Mukden apparently have had an even more difficult time. They are shadowed from the time of their arrival and one letter said to have been received in Shanghai from a correspondent stated that the guard supplied to the correspondent from General Chang's headquarters did everything except sleep and dine with the Shanghai writer.

The above information may be of some service to readers of Shanghai newspapers who are wondering why there is not more and better news from the fighting lines in the North. But outside of this there is another interest in that it shows that China is learning all of the branches of modern warfare and the conduct of military operations, a significant element referred to previously in these columns. A Western military observer who was with the armies of General Chi Hsieh-yuan in one of the assaults along the Shanghai-Nanking Railway stated that he had seen a squad of Chinese artillerymen operating a battery of field guns and doing it just as well as he had observed Westerners doing a similar job on the Western front in the World War.

In the fighting which was in progress in the Shanghai area for nearly eight weeks, the troops on both sides used about all of the instruments of modern warfare which have been invented with the possible exception of poison-gas bombs. They had airplanes conducting bombing operations and these were followed by anti-aircraft guns. Armored cars operated between Nanziang and Kating and the reports of the effective use of machine guns became commonplace. Apparently the Chinese soldier is becoming as skilled in the use of the mechanisms of modern warfare as his fellow craftsman working in the modern factory in Shanghai is becoming skilled in the operation of the technical machines of modern industry.

This in all probability is the most significant element or lesson which the outside observer has been able to gain from the present internal strife in China. By fighting each other the Chinese political and military factions are learning how to wage war skilfully. In many particulars they are doing the job badly, but it is only through experiences such as these that men and nations learn—and China is learning, there is no question of that.

It will of course require many years before China will reach the place where she would dare attempt a trial of arms with another country, but the point to it all is that China is becoming militarised. Right now militarism is the chief interest and activity of China. Education and industry have been relegated to the background. Some day the Chinese people will acquire sufficient intelligence to realise the folly of fighting and killing each other and then . . . We leave the rest to those who like to speculate upon the destiny of China's four hundred millions of people.

It is a pathetic commentary upon world civilisation to realise that after contact with the so-called Western cultus or whatever it should be called for so many generations the one thing which China apparently has acquired from her contact with the West is the most objectionable thing of all, otherwise, MILITARISM.

Bolshevism Fast Assuming A Menacing Aspect

IN the early part of last month, a diplomat, discussing the situation in China with a representative of a London paper, accused the Soviet of plotting for the Bolshevisation of China by lending support, overt or covert, to the various fomentors of anarchy. At the time, we suggested in these columns that the prevailing disorders in this country would be regarded by the Soviet as a heaven-sent opportunity to proselytise the Chinese to their own political creed. A more effective confirmation of the theory then advanced could scarcely have been forthcoming than that furnished by the London message published in another column today giving the tenor of the latest articles in the Soviet Press. The Soviet is nothing if not candid: "After five years of effort Communism is approaching her hour of triumph in the Far East, and shortly China's four hundred millions will be united through the Communist International to the Soviet Government under the Red Flag. After China comes India, and after India a world revolution."

That is the grandiose dream of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, and to that task the Red Government has consecrated itself. Discussing events in China, the Soviet Press asserts that there are in China hundreds of Chinese Communist agitators, educated in the Communist University at Tashkent, where hundreds of Indian agitators have also been trained with a view to overthrowing British rule in India. The Bolshevists declare that amid the present political turmoil in Europe, the time is ripe for a Chinese revolution. Precisely. That is exactly the reason why the United States Government and the most stable elements in Great Britain and other responsible countries have resolutely declined to have any dealings with a body of men representing a system that accounts itself smart when it succeeds in spreading trouble within the domains of other Governments. In this connection, we cannot help alluding to the sardonic reference to Mr. Ramsay MacDonald by M. Zinovieff in a remarkable speech at Moscow the other day regarding the British Labor leader's Premiership, when this pillar of the Soviet expressed the Bolshevists' heartfelt desire for a continuance of Mr. MacDonald's administration, because "it was under the pressure of revolutionary Labor." He asserted that Mr. MacDonald's so-called following had forced him to sign the Russian Treaties and release Mr. Campbell of the Worker's Weekly despite the latter's overt incitement to the Army to revolt against authority. M. Zinovieff, with calm audacity, declared that it was now unnecessary to send Soviet agitators abroad, because "enemies like MacDonald had become their best agitators."

We are less concerned with the situation in Europe than that in this part of the world. It does not require much imagination to conjure up the extent of the mischief that will be caused by the Bolshevisation of a country of the size and potentialities of China. We know, of course, that Kwangtung has virtually been converted into a Bolshevik State under Dr. Sun. One who was recently in the South attests that when he left Canton the Red flag was fluttering in the breeze over the Civil Governor's yamen. It may be our turn next. The Soviet is an aggressive institution, and with China's present political disorders, which are a powerful ally of the Russian Government, the future is dark with uncertainty, especially when it is remembered that misgovernment is one of the things that breed Bolshevism.

The Coming German Election

THE dissolution of the Reichstag will lead to an election which is fraught with many important possibilities not only for Germany herself, but for the whole of Europe. The policy of the Marxist Government has undoubtedly been one tending towards as effective a settlement of Germany's difficulties with the rest of the world as possible, and has been attended with considerable success in that direction, despite the fact that the Government never held complete sway on account of the composition of the house. To that extent it may be urged that the success of recent German foreign policy has been due more to the forbearance of the opponents of Herr Marx, than to the ability either of him or his immediate followers. Nevertheless those in power generally reap whatever benefit there is to be obtained from such successes, and for this reason there appears to be some justification for the belief that the Socialists will make headway even against a combination of the Nationalist and People's Parties.

The former have declared war a l'outrance upon the Socialists, and from their point of view the struggle will be fought out on the issue of Monarchism v. Republicanism. The history of the years since the abdication of Kaiser Wilhelm clearly shows that though there was considerable unanimity on the subject of his removal from power, a large section of the German peoples were not prepared for the establishment of a purely republican form of government, and, indeed, resented it. Even at this date, though the People's Party may not be wholly prepared to advocate the restoration of the monarchical system, it seems clear that it would rather do this than progress further with experiments in socialism and communism.

An interesting sidelight upon the privileges of members of the Reichstag is to be found in the statement that the dissolution has abolished the immunity of members from arrest on criminal charges, and it is a singular fact that men against whom allegations of high treason and conspiracy were made, were free from arrest, merely because they were members of the legislative body. Taking advantage of this fact, it would appear that most of the members of the Communist Party have been engaged in all manner of nefarious undertakings, including forgery, for the purpose of furthering their political ends. There is something to be said of a party which stakes its fortunes on out-and-out rebellion. It is true that in so doing, they violate the laws they help to make and are expected to observe, but there is something more praiseworthy in spirit in such an action than there is in the conduct alleged against the Communists, who are now in flight. Immunity for legislators from arrest on civil process is perfectly comprehensible, but to protect malefactors from the immediate consequences of their acts by such a privilege is, to say the least, somewhat absurd.

The Nationalists, in the brief account of their manifesto which has come to hand, breathe the same jingoistic spirit which has always animated the Party. It is still monarchist, desires nothing whatever to do with either republicanism or socialism. Its will, it says, is to create a Germany free from Jewish and French domination, again endeavoring to set up the erroneous contention that the former are alone responsible for the furtherance of revolutionary doctrines —a wholly unwarrantable assertion. For while it may be true that among the leaders of present revolutionary thought are to be found many of the Jewish race, there are more equally prominently opposed to their teachings. As for the allegation of French domination, that, too, is absurd, unless the insistence of the French Government upon Germany's fulfilment of her obligations may be held to amount to such. It is apparent, therefore, that the Nationalist Party is endeavoring to secure support for itself by raising cries involving race hatreds. Such is regrettable, but it is to be believed that what the Party wants is power at any and all costs, and any and every cry is likely to be raised if it secures that power which has been denied it so long. It would be idle to contend that if Germany wants a restoration of a monarchy, it should not have it, but it is not likely that the Party would succeed in its plans unless it obtained an overwhelming majority in the Reichstag. This is unlikely, and the opinion of experts that the Socialist Party will make headway even against a combination of that Party and the People's Party, indicates confirmation in the belief that many years will pass before Europe will be faced with a monarchical Germany as an accomplished fact.

Other Views Than Ours On The War In China

"THE CHINESE MUDDLE"

(The Sioux City, Iowa Tribune)

It is not easy to keep track of the immediate causes for all civil wars that break out in China. It is fair to assume that most of the individual ructions are started over some dispute which the leaders directly concerned understand, whether anybody else does or not. This may be taken as true of the present trouble over there, as it has been of the various outbreaks of the recent past.

The general trouble is not so hard to understand, however. It may be taken as a standard rule that in a republic which is to abide and progress military authority must be subordinated to civil authority. This has not been the case in China since the attempt to maintain a republic was started. The result is not surprising.

Chinese generals are not, as a rule, fighting because they love war or with the idea of conquering territory and establishing themselves permanently. They have found it easy to enlist irregular forces with which to sack and pillage in some district, paying the soldiers out of the loot and growing rich on the residue. These leaders, if their forces increase, are soon able to defy civil authority and keep on enlarging their scope of operations until the zones of activities of two or more of them begin to overlap seriously. Usually the government has granted concessions to each, and gets drawn into the fuss, leading on to real hostilities of greater or less proportions.

Recently, for instance, the city of Canton gave the Kwangsi general the concession for importing opium into that district. Another leader, the Hunan general, had the concession for selling the stuff in Canton. The importers had to make their money on that business, so stuck the price up so high that the retailing business wouldn't show any profit to those having that right. Strained relations have resulted, with the government of that district involved. A war may develop there sometime soon.

The present ruction around Shanghai will branch out and develop along better defined lines, in all probability, if it grows into a real civil war. It may grow to the point where the Russians and the Japs will find an excuse for getting in, and making a real war of it. If this mess quiets down, there is serious danger that some future fuss will bring that crisis. What China needs and must have is a central government strong enough to subordinate military authority to civil authority. There will be trouble over there as long as that condition is reversed.

More Truth Than Poetry

BY S. E. KISER

The star-spangled banner is waving all right,
  Its stripes are as lovely as ever before;
Alarmists are trying to fill us with fright,
  But we seldom believe what they say any more;
The crooks here and there
Still refuse to be square,
  And the price of existence reveals no reduction;
You have got to show cash
Or you can't make a splash,
  But the country's not yet on the edge of destruction.

The star-spangled banner still gives us a thrill
Whenever we pass where it waves in the breeze,
Though bootleggers flourish and weapons that kill
  May be purchased as boldly as butter or cheese;
It is mighty bad luck
To be struck by a truck,
  But the rascals sometimes are compelled to hunt cover;
There is work to be done,
And the glorious one
  Can still kindle joy in the breast of her lover.

The star-spangled banner waves proudly on high,
  The goddess still stands on the capitol's dome;
They charge us too much for the things we must buy,
  And the searchers no longer respect a man's home;
The ridiculous klans
Go ahead with their plans
  To tear down the structure our fathers erected,
But I'm willing to bet
We'll have happiness yet,
  No matter, by jingo, which ticket's elected.

Comfort for the Aged

Old people are easily tired out and weakened by coughing. For them there is much comfort in a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It stops those weakening coughs that keeps them awake nights and wear out their strength. Every one knows it contains no narcotics. More bottles of it are used each year than of any similar cough medicine. Sold everywhere.

The Prevention Of Disease

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

In his presidential address to the British Association meeting in Canada last month, Sir David Bruce made a very useful statement of the typhoid fever problem. The whole emphasis of his address was upon the prevention rather than the cure of diseases. As to typhoid fever, he said that the fundamental and sound way of attacking this disease is by ordinary hygienic measures, especially a good water supply and good drainage.

When typhoid fever is rife in a community it means that there is defect in one or the other of these essentials, and the municipal authorities should be held to account. There is nothing novel about this statement, but it gains in force by having been so prominently presented.

There is nothing that needs more repetition than advice to look out for your health. An immense amount of sickness is caused by carelessness, either of the victims themselves or of others who may be reponsible for the cause of the sickness. Every member of a community can help, by watchfulness, in the maintenance of proper hygienic conditions.

But particularly interesting in Sir David Bruce's address, and somewhat uncommon also, is what he says about the use of inoculation in typhoid. Remarking that it is not always possible to ensure good hygienic surroundings, as for example, among troops on active service, he goes on to say that "it is therefore legitimate, under certain conditions, and especially in time of war, to practice a less sound, a less fundamental, method of prevention, and this second method is known as inoculation or vaccination."

But he does not mean by this to suggest any doubt as to the propriety of using such a method, or of its efficiency when used, but merely to make plain the fact that its use can only be rendered necessary by the absence of hygienic precautions which are rarely unattainable except under such conditions as surround an army in the field. How efficient the inoculation method is he shows by such facts as this:

"In the South African war, before the method had been developed, an army the average strength of which was only 208,000, there were 58,000 cases of typhoid fever and 8,000 deaths; in the Great War, on the western front, with an average British strength of one and a quarter millions, there were only 7,500 cases and 266 deaths."

Many persons do not yet understand the modus operandi of the inoculation method. Sir David Bruce describes it with uncommon clearness. Consider what takes place in a man's body when the typhoid bacillus attacks him.

The bacillus gives rise to poisons or toxins, which cause the fever and the other symptoms of the disease. "But cells and tissues of the man are not passive under the attack. They at once begin to fight against the infection by forming substances in the blood to neutralize the toxins, hence called antitoxins, or antibodies, and their function is finally to destroy the invading germs. If the man recovers he is immune from a further attack by the presence of these antibodies in his blood. He has has become immune by passing through an attack of the disease."

On this is founded the inocalation method, which, speaking broadly, means that "you subject a man to a mild attack of the fever in order that his blood and tissues will respond to the stimulus by producing antibodies." These antibodies are then ready to defend him against a future attack, which might be of fatal intensity. The inoculation germs are obtained by passing the typhoid bacillus through the body of some other animal, which weakens their force, but does not render them less efficient in calling forth antibodies of normal strength.

The Vampire in "A Fool There Was" is orchid distilled from the seven deadly sins. See her in the famous screen adaptation on the Kipling poem at the Isis Theatre beginning Sunday.

In Devious Ways Fur Is Used to Trim New Frocks and Wraps

"Beige cloth with brown fur," "Gray kasha with gray fur," "White crepe satin with white fur." Such phrases from descriptions of new frocks displayed by the renowned French designers might lead one to imagine that these French fashion leaders were indifferent to high quality in furs—that white rabbit was as satisfactory as ermine and dyed coney as sable.

But such is far from the case. The truth is, however, that in making model frocks even the most reputable of the big dressmakers cannot and would not afford to use highpriced peltry. They use rabbit, hare, rat, even backyard cat, thereby simply indicating that fur of such and such a color is to be used in a certain way. If the gown is ordered by a customer of wealth and good taste, ermine or sable or mink or beaver—some one of the precious peltries—will be used. If by a person of less discrimination or less wealth some one of the dyed skins of good quality. If the model is bought by some manufacturer of inexpensive ready-made frocks, then, of course, the fur idea has to be carried out with whatever cheap fur will answer the purpose. Artists though these designers may be, there is something quite canny and practical about most of their methods.

Fur is used lavishly and frequently in the clothes of the autumn. Squirrel tails like big bushy tassels are sometimes used for trimming. Sometimes bands of squirrel tail are used. Monkey fur has ben revived, and leopard, tiger and similar furs are used in bands and for collars and cuffs. Dyed hare is the most talked about fur novelty of the season, because it is used in bright colors. The conservatives speak of it as "jazzy fashion," and make prediction that it will soon pass. It is sometimes bright green, sometimes red and sometimes colored flecked with gilt. Milliners have even taken to dying ermine red, lemon color, green and black, and have been using it in small applications as trimming for new hats.

WITH DATES

Here is a pudding made of stale bread and dates that is excellent. It calls for one-half cup of dates, one cup of bread, two tablespoons of sugar, one-half cup nut meats, two eggs and a half cup of milk. Stone the dates and put through the meat grinder with the nuts and bread. Put in mixing bowl and add eggs, sugar and milk. Mix well, turn into a buttered pudding dish, and bake for a half hour. Serve with top milk or cream.

One of the most generally liked salads is made from dates. Remove the stones and fill each date evenly with cream cheese. Lay four dates on each individual bed of lettuce, sprinkle with broken nuts and serve with mayonnaise dressing.

A good filling for sandwiches can be made by mixing chopped or ground dates with ground nuts and a little cream cheese spread between buttered slices of whole wheat or graham bread.

Chopped dates mixed with a little flour may be added to graham or whole wheat bread or muffin recipes with excellent results. Date whip is a delicious desert to remember when you have extra egg whites on hand. It calls for a cup of stoned chopped dates, cooked in a half cup of boiling water until tender. Press through a seive and add to stiffly beaten egg whites with a third of a cup of sugar, one tablespoon of lemon juice and a pinch of salt. This may be served uncooked or piled in a buttered baking dish and cooked like a meringue.

A delicious date cake filling is made by mixing two cups of dates, stoned and cut in small pieces, a half cup of whipped cream, a half cup of powdered sugar and a few drops of lemon juice.

Date pie is liked by many persons. It is made by mixing one and a half cups of dates, cooked in a half cup of boiling water until tender and then put through a seive, to a custard-pie filling. It is poured into the plain pastry shell and cooked liked a custard pie.

Chinwangtao Threatened As Flanking Movement Is Made By Fengtien Armies

admiration for these patiently enduring fellows, who fought and bled in a war forced on them by people in whom they had no interest and for a cause which would bring them no benefit whatever. With a smile they chatted with one another, pausing to hitch a bandage into place, or sitting for a moment to smoke a cigarette, while behind and to the left of them sounded the thunder of the tragedy which they had only just left for a spell. Incompetent dressing stations did their best for them, but a bucket of water and a bandage applied by the unskilful hands of a corporal seemed to be the only help that was available in those which the writer visited en route, and only too many of these poor soldier-coolies fell by the wayside, rolled over and died, with perhaps a longing thought of the railway five miles away that would have borne them to help and safety if they could but have reached it.

All across the fields to the foothills ran little footpaths, dotted with the moving figures of men going up the line or of wounded coming out, with here and there the motionless grey figure of one of those who had "gone west" in very truth. The day was clear and sunny, enhancing a perfect autumn scene, and the blue sky outlined most vividly an aeroplane that presently droned overhead from the Fengtien lines on a tour of observation, followed by a burst or two of shrapnel.

Why the Chihli artillery persist in using "duds" or high explosive for the majority of their shots the writer is puzzled to explain, for out of twelve artillery reports on this occasion only one gave any result in a shrapnel burst, the little puff of smoke trailing away in the rear of the indifferently circling aviator.

STAFF PLANS ASTRAY

Your correspondent had set his heart on reaching a little hog-backed hill lying across the mouth of the valley that debouches from Chu Men way upon the Chinwangtao plain. So that his surprise may be imagined when he topped a slight slope in front of a tiny village and came slap onto infantry moving to the flank in extended order. "Are you coming along with us?" invited a non-commissioned officer, and the suggestion was adopted with approval, for the writer was forced to admit that his ideas were all upset for the moment, the Staff having reported the previous day that their Chihli troops were beyond Shihmenchai itself.

Here was infantry in open order full ten li to the east of that village, and even as the problem was meditated and the lie of the land reconsidered, a thud in the distance and the burst of shrapnel slightly to the right and fifty or sixty yards ahead reinforced the news that Staff plans must have gone astray. The infantry doubled out across an almost dry river bed, their conscripted coolies, poor devils, dashing alongside with their heavy burden of ammunition until exhaustion forced them to lie down on the sand and pant for a moment.

Three crashes of high explosive, probably searching for mauen batteries, decided the writer that the open was not as safe as a ditch in the vicinity, and he joined the troops in their extended order, extending his legs to their best speed until cover was reached. A few photographs were snapped, though mostly in hope of good luck, as everyone was moving pretty fast at the time, and then the line shifted half left and proceeded towards a low hill whence came the rat-tat-tat of a machine gun. Shrapnel was getting mighty persistent in its searching and the high explosive decided to shift forty-five minutes to the left, so that it appeared as if it might be better to let the line go on unaccompanied, the more so as your correspondent was a neutral and had no desire to be mixed up in any disputes with Chang Tso-lin's gunners.

GOODBY AND GOOD LUCK

So adieus were said, and good luck wished to the plodding little coolies in uniform and out as they pushed further up the hill, only to be held ere they reached the crest by a burst of machine gun fire that toppled over a round dozen of them. As the writer walked back towards Chinwangtao and safety he looked back and saw the firing line going to ground again to await events.

The tramp back was comparatively montonous, though long files of reserves were passed en route winding across the field paths towards the firing line. It was rather amusing to note the dignity of the officers who accompanied their men as they were borne majestically along in sedan chairs, with their adjutants and orderlies carrying their umbrellas, suit cases, water bottles, etc.

On returning to the station it appeared that the General Staff knew nothing of the position, or if they did they were not going to tell, probably because of the trouble with the Japanese authorities during the last few days. Of course there was a certain amount of feeling over the arrest of a Japanese officer at Shanhaikwan two or three days ago, but the Chinese belief that the Japanese are sending out their messages through their wireless station is responsible for most of the trouble. As to the merits of the case the writer is not in a position to express any opinion, but it is common knowledge that a Japanese officer came expressely from the garrison at Tientsin to discuss the matter with Marshal Wu himself.

If the Fengtien aviators get much wilder in their bombing they will put the wireless out of commission anyway, for their aim seems to be erratic in the extreme. Only yesterday the writer found one bomb that had fallen to the south of the railway tracks during their customary morning strafe and had not exploded. After placing it carefully in a big pool of water as a precautionary measure your correspondent photographed it as a curiosity, but on returning later in the day to exhibit it to some friends it had vanished. The lot of the person who carried it way no old metal is not to be envied, for there is no reason why a sudden jar would not explode the whole bag of tricks, probably to the surprise of the bearer.

To summarise the present situation, the writer would suggest that Chang is pushing very hard indeed on the flank which threatens Chinwangtao, and if he can get clear of the foothills in which he is now fighting it is difficult to see how Marshal Wu Pei-fu can maintain his position, the river line at Lanchowfu being the next logical stop if a retreat becomes necessary.

$234 in currency was taken from the cash drawer and cash box, and then all four men ran north in Singkeipang Road.

A foreigner, Mr. A. Castro, was coming along Tongshan Road, nearby, at the time, and saw a Chinese running towards him. While still some distance away, the Chinese drew a pistol and fired at the foreigner, but missed, and turned down Chaoufoong Road, where there was a police search party at the time. The man ran straight towards the group at first, then, seeing them, fired at Police Sergeant Taylor at about fifty yards, missing him.

The man turned down a convenient alleyway, but the police were hot on his trail and soon caught him. He was found to be in possession of a .38-caliber revolver, with three rounds of ammunition and two empty cartridges. He gave his name as Sung Yoong-zen.

Sung appeared in the Mixed Court yesterday on three charges, participating in an armed robbery, the attempted murder of Mr. Castro, and the attempted murder of P. S. Taylor. He came before Mr. Bucknell, American Assessor, and Magistrate Li, and was remanded for one week, the case to be set for a special hearing. In the meantime, counsel is to be appointed for the defense of the accused.

Prepare Vindictive For China Station

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 22.—Captain George Hyde, of the Royal Australian Navy, takes command today of the cruiser Vindictive, which is preparing at Chatham to relieve H. M. S. Diomede on the China station.

This is the first time under peace conditions that a captain from any Dominion navy has taken command of an Imperial vessel.
